Chairman John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) sald in an opening statement that the subcommittee has a "mandate" from the Senate to act "promptly" oil legislation that would protect the rights of labor, management and the public,

Knowland, sponsor of what he has described as a 13-point "bill of rights" for workingmen, was about to start his prepared remarks when a fellow Republicary -Sen. Irving M. Ives (N.Y.)broke in with a question,

Protect Against Abases Ives asked if Knowland would favor a "moderate" rather than a "extreme" reform bill, saying he feared that a bill "loaded with a some rather controversial proposals" would die in the House.

Knowland said he is opposed to "extreme" legislation, but would have to know what Ives meant by "moderate."
